DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-3 and 6-8, drawn to a system and program for retrieving parts information, classified in class 705, subclass 27.
- II. Claims 4 and 6, drawn to a server with order sheet transmitting means, classified in class 705, subclass 26.
- III. Claims 5 and 6, drawn to a server with a customer database of customers, classified in class 705, subclass 27.
- IV. Claims 9-13 and 15-17, drawn to a system for retrieving maintenance data, classified in class 705, subclass 27.
- V. Claim 14, drawn to a server with means for storing history of retrieves, classified in class 705, subclass 27.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as a system and program for retrieving parts information which does not require an order sheet transmitting means. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions I and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as a system and program for retrieving parts information which does not require a customer database of customers. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions I and IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as a system and program for retrieving parts information which does not require maintenance data. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions I and V are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as a system and program for retrieving parts information which does not require means for storing history of retrieves. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions II and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention III has separate utility such as a server which does not require an order sheet transmitting means. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention IV has separate utility such as a system for retrieving maintenance data which does not require an order sheet transmitting means. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions II and V are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention V has separate utility such as a server which does not require an order sheet transmitting means. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions III and IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention IV has separate utility, such as a system for retrieving maintenance data which does not require a customer database. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions III and V are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention III has separate utility such as a server with a customer database which does not require means for storing history of retrieves. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions IV and V are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention IV has separate utility such as a system for retrieving maintenance data which does not require means for storing history of retrieves. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
